

Applicants hereby amend the paragraph on page 20, beginning on line 13 of the specification as follows:

The excitation source constitutes a reservoir for a chemical or biological excitation substance or medium that for example influences the metabolism of the cell, with metabolic processes being made visible by luminescence and detected by-at the at least one optical detector.